Language is both a means of social communication and a unique property of the human mind. As such, linguistics - the scientific study of language - has a broad appeal to students who are interested in the social sciences, the humanities, computer science, or the life sciences. The undergraduate program in linguistics helps students understand the diversity of human modes of communication, the social and psychological origins of language, and the processes by which languages are learned and lost. A major in linguistics thus provides students with a focused but broad-based education in the liberal arts. In addition, the way linguists think about their subject has greatly influenced the development of other disciplines such as anthropology, computer science, language teaching, philosophy, psychology, and sociology. A degree in linguistics will thus be of great value to students intending to pursue careers in those fields.

Graduates of the linguistics program who enter the work force immediately after graduating find employment in a wide variety of settings as: teachers, writers, translators, editors, civil servants, community developers, etc. Graduates who go on to advanced study find themselves well prepared for professional careers in fields such as linguistics, language teaching, educational administration, language planning, language research, speech pathology, lexicography, publishing, and foreign service.

Two tracks are available in the B.A. degree in Linguistics-the first track provides students with a solid grounding in linguistic theory and application; the second track focuses primarily on teaching English to new speakers of the language in an ESL or Bilingual setting. Majors in both tracks are required to obtain a grade of C or better in each of the core courses.

Since the study of theoretical linguistics involves analysis of languages other than one’s native language, the linguistics track requires either one year of an uncommon or non-Western language or two years of any other foreign language. The ESL/Bilingual Education/ENL track requires one year of study of any foreign language, to allow time for additional coursework that ESL/ENL students may choose to take in order to obtain teaching certification. Either course of study satisfies the foreign language requirement of the College of Liberal Arts.

The linguistics track of the major consists of a minimum of 33 semester hours. This includes 12 hours of required foundation courses and 21 hours chosen from linguistic electives covering a broad range of subfields within the discipline. This flexibility allows linguistics students to double-major in a variety of other fields.

Required courses: (12 semester hours)
- LING 200 Language, Society and the Mind
- LING 300 Introduction to Descriptive Linguistics
- LING 405 Introduction to Phonological Theories
- LING 408 Introduction to Syntactic Theory

The 21 hours of electives may include (but are not limited to) courses on the following list. They must include 15 hours at the 400-level and a linguistics course designated Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC). Up to six hours may be drawn from other departments such as English, Psychology, Anthropology, Languages, Cultures, and International Trade, subject to approval of the Linguistics faculty.

Sampling of acceptable electives (21 semester hours)
- LING 320I Language, Gender, and Power
- LING 340 Second Language Acquisition
LING 400 Formal Semantics
LING 402 Phonetics
LING 406 Introduction to Historical Linguistics (WAC)
LING 415 Sociolinguistics
LING 426 Gender, Culture, and Language
LING 440 Topics in Linguistics (may be repeated)
LING 443 Bilingualism
LING 445 Psycholinguistics
LING 452 Field Methods in Linguistics (WAC; may be repeated)

The major in linguistics with specialization in English as a Second Language (ESL)/Bilingual Education, also known as English as a New Language (ENL), consists of 33 semester hours comprising a core of basic courses in the structure of the English language and pedagogical methods:

Required Courses for ESL/ENL BA:
LING 200 Language, Society, and the Mind or 201 Language Diversity in the USA
LING 300 Introduction to Descriptive Linguistics
LING 340 Second Language Acquisition
LING 341 Introduction to Intercultural Communication
LING 353 Theory and Methods of TESOL
LING 431 Pedagogical Grammar
LING 470 Theoretical Foundations of Teaching ESL and Bilingual Students
LING 472 Assessment of ESL and Bilingual Students

Linguistics Minor
The minor in linguistics is 18 hours of study and draws upon core courses from the Department of Linguistics. It introduces students to the science of language and to aspects of linguistic structure and language use. A minor in linguistics may be of special interest to students in anthropology, computer science, English, foreign languages and literatures, mathematics, philosophy, psychology, sociology, communication studies, and communication disorders and sciences.

Course requirements for the minor in linguistics are LING 200 and LING 300, plus at least four additional LING courses (12 semester hours) including two (six semester hours) at the 400-level. LING 480A does not count toward the minor in linguistics.

Linguistics Courses
LING001 - Foundation English 1 001-1 Foundation English 1. Foundation English focuses on reading and listening, with some functional writing and basic interpersonal speaking. Students at this level are true beginners. Goals: ability to comprehend pre-grade reading starting with alphabet and number recognition. Begin using basic grammatical structures and vocabulary related to classroom and survival situations. English life and introduction to American culture are developed through reading and listening. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory.

LING002 - Foundation English 2 002-1 Foundation English 2. Foundation English focuses on reading and listening, with some functional writing and basic interpersonal speaking. Students at this level have some skills, but are below LING 010. Goals: ability to comprehend pre-grade reading starting with alphabet and number recognition. Begin using basic grammatical structures and vocabulary related to classroom and survival situations. English life and introduction to American culture are developed... through reading and listening. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 001 (FE 1).

LING010 - General English 1
010-1 General English 1. General English 1 focuses on reading and listening, with some functional writing and basic interpersonal speaking. Goals: ability to comprehend 2-4th grade reading and listening texts, development of life skills English, and orientation to American culture through reading and listening. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 002 (FE 2).

LING020 - General English 2
020-1 General English 2. General English 2 focuses on reading and listening, with sentence and paragraph-level writing and integrated reading and listening texts. Goals: ability to comprehend 4-7th grade reading texts and media, write descriptive, narrative and opinion paragraphs, and listen for both main ideas and details. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 010 (GE 1).

LING030 - Advanced English 1
030-1 Advanced English 1. AE 1 focuses on comprehending, summarizing, and responding to short and extended narrative texts written at 8-12th grade level. Goals: to identify/discuss author purpose, target audience, major/minor characters, and points of view; to recognize/identify the characteristics and structures of narrative texts; to identify issue and thesis statements and pro/con main ideas versus details; to follow events so as to sequence and predict orally and in writing; to participate in the writing process, learning techniques for pre-writing, idea and topic refinement, addition of details and structural improvements, drafting using the computer as a writing tool, and conferencing before revision and final presentation in newsletter or simple essay form. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 020 (GE 2).

LING040 - Advanced English 2
040-1 Advanced English 2. Focusing on societal issues (e.g., effects of changing familial structures, gender roles in society, effects of modernization, social ethics) to provide a context for language. Learners are regularly involved in summarizing, evaluating, and responding to expository media written at the 9-12th grade level. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 030 (AE 1).

LING050 - Engl for Acad Purposes 1
050-1 English for Academic Purposes 1. Introduction to and practice of academic skills and strategies with content-based materials drawn from introductory freshmen-level texts. Focus on the ability to decode, comprehend, infer, learn, remember, and anticipate academic textual information. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of AE 2.

LING060 - Engl for Acad Purposes 2
060-1 English for Academic Purposes 2. In preparation for undergraduate studies, EAP 2 emphasizes the linguistic and cultural skills necessary to function and survive an American undergraduate-level classroom. Activities to include critical reading/thinking skills and strategies as applied to longer texts. Given teacher support and guidance, demonstrate ability to understand, study, and be tested over extensive (chapter-long written and 10-60 minute video) academic materials written above the 12th grade level. Participate in writing workshop to construct, revise, and critique supported writing, both argumentative and informative. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 050 (EAP 1).

LING070 - Graduate Student English
070-1 CESL-Graduate Student English. In preparation for graduate studies, GSE emphasizes linguistic and cultural skills necessary to function and survive an American graduate-level classroom. Activities include critical reading/thinking skills and strategies as applied to longer academically-focused texts. Demonstrate ability to comprehend, summarize, discuss, present, and answer essay questions on graduate-level academic materials. Demonstrate ability to take and use well-organized notes. Write an academically supported research paper of a minimum of ten pages using accurate APA in-text and bibliographic citations. Prerequisite: CESL diagnostics with a grade of satisfactory or successful completion of LING 060 (EAP 2).

LING100 - Speak/Listen in ESL
100-3 Speaking and Listening in English as a Second Language. Oral conversational and academic English. An elective for students who do not speak English as their first language. Classes are offered at beginning, intermediate and advanced levels. May be repeated at three different levels for a maximum of 9 credit hours. Mandatory Pass/Fail.
LING101 - English Comp. I for ESL  101-3 English Composition I for ESL Students. (University Core Curriculum) [IAI Course: C1 900] The first course in the university’s two-course required composition sequence designed for ESL students. This course helps ESL writers become more comfortable with and proficient in academic writing in English. To this end, Linguistics 101 teaches students processes and strategies for planning, drafting, revising and editing their English writing for academic audiences. Course assignments focus on writing from primary and secondary sources. ESL equivalent to University Core Curriculum English 101.

LING102 - English Comp II for ESL  102-3 English Composition II for ESL Students. (University Core Curriculum) [IAI Course: C1 901R] The second course in the university’s two-course required composition sequence designed for ESL students. This course helps ESL writers become more comfortable with and proficient in research writing for academic audiences. Linguistics 102 focuses on writing from secondary sources, teaching students processes and strategies for planning, drafting, revising and editing papers that incorporate published material. All aspects of the research process are addressed, from locating and evaluating relevant sources to incorporating and documenting these sources in papers written for various purposes. Students must earn a grade of C or better in LING 101 or ENGL 101 before beginning LING 102. For credit in the University Core Curriculum, students must earn a "C" or better in 102. Equivalent to University Core Curriculum ENGL 102. Prerequisite: LING 101 or ENGL 101.

LING104 - Grammar in Language  104-3 Grammar in Language. Description and explanation of the major grammatical categories and structures found in a wide variety of languages, including English. Consideration of the role of language structures in such topics as the nature, origin, acquisition, and variation of language. Course is designed to give students insight into the basic concepts of grammar and show their interrelationship, importance, and functioning in human language.

LING200 - Language, Society & the Mind  200-3 Language, Society and the Mind. (University Core Curriculum) What distinguishes humans from other animals? This course addresses how language is a uniquely human phenomenon by exploring issues in language and society and psychological aspects of language use. Topics include language in conversation, differences between speakers of different ages/genders/regions/social groups, first and second language acquisition, bilingualism, language meaning, and change, and the relationship between language and culture.

LING201 - Language Diversity in USA  201-3 Language Diversity in the USA. (University Core Curriculum) An examination of different varieties of English and the growing presence of other languages in the United States. Local, regional and national perspectives are used to review current patterns of language diversity and to explore the impact of language issues on policies and practices in education, the legal system and the workplace.

LING290 - Advanced English Comp for ESL  290-3 Advanced English Composition for ESL Students. This course helps ESL writers refine their writing in English, with a focus on broadening their understanding of the rhetorical expectations of the types of writing done in their professional disciplines, both in academia and in industry. Assignments focus on the exploration of research methods and writing tasks involved in various fields and in the job application process. Students must earn a grade of C or better in LING 102 or ENGL 102 before beginning LING 290. Prerequisite: LING 101 or ENGL 101 and LING 102 or ENGL 102.

LING298 - Multicultural Applied Exper  298-1 Multicultural Applied Experience. (Multicultural Applied Experience Course) An applied experience, service-oriented credit in American diversity involving a group different from the student’s own. Difference can be manifested by age, gender, ethnicity, nationality, political affiliation, race or class. Students can sign up for the one-credit experience in the same semester they fulfill the multicultural requirement for the University Core Curriculum or coordinate the credit with a particular core course on American diversity, although neither is required. Students should consult the department for course specifications regarding grading, work requirements and supervision. Graded Pass/Fail.

LING300 - Intro to Descript Linguistics  300-3 Introduction to Descriptive Linguistics. An introductory survey of descriptive and theoretical linguistics: assumptions, methods, goals, terminology, and data manipulation.

LING301 - Language in Culture & Society  301-3 Language in Culture and Society. (Same as ANTH 301) The problem of the uniqueness of human language and how it fits into culture and society. The origin and development of language. Topics covered include animal and human communication, language and world view, and the meaning of meaning.

LING302 - Invented Languages 302-3 From Esperanto to Dothraki: The Linguistic Reality of Invented Languages. Invented or constructed languages (ConLangs) such as Elvish, Klingon, and Dothraki have become firmly established within the public consciousness, most of them created by trained linguists. But how plausible are these languages? In what ways are they informed by documentation work on existing languages and cultures throughout the world? This course seeks to gain an understanding of the motivations, methods, means (and sometimes madness) of the language inventor and of how invented languages fit within the broader typology of the world’s languages and cultures.

LING320I - Language, Gender, Power 320I-3 Language, Gender and Power. (University Core Curriculum) (Same as WGSS 320I) This course looks at language practices and men and women from different cultures in terms of how speech reflects and shapes their social identities. Perspectives from the field of linguistics, anthropology, psychology, sociology and speech communication will be used.

LING330 - Language and Behavior 330-3 Language and Behavior. A wide-ranging examination of the implications of language study for people’s view of themselves and their place in the world. Topics deal with the pervasiveness of verbal and non-verbal language in various aspects of modern society.

LING340 - Second Language Acquisition 340-3 Second Language Acquisition. (Same as PSYC 345) Introduction to key concepts and major theoretical and methodological issues in SLA research. Examines major developments in SLA in the areas of phonology, morphology, lexis, syntax, semantics, pragmatics and discourse and provides students with hands-on experience in describing and accounting for L2 data. An opportunity to design and implement a data-based study in an area of interest to students. Prerequisite: LING 300 or consent of instructor.

LING341 - Intro to Intercultural Comm 341-3 Introduction to Intercultural Communication. (See CMST 341)

LING353 - TESOL Theory/Methods 353-3 Theory and Methods of TESOL. Theory and methods to teach ESL/EFL. Promotes eclecticism through reflective practice; overview of methods from early grammar translation to cognitive and communicative, integrated skills, technology and content-based approaches. Lecture, readings, discussion, demonstration, material review, lesson planning, micro-teaching.

LING382 - Course Design for TESOL 382-3 Course Design for TESOL. Overview of issues and procedures in the design and implementation of courses for TESOL. Particular attention is given to recent developments such as content-based instruction. All major course components such as setting of objectives, syllabus design, content specification and evaluation are considered. In addition, resources available for addressing these issues will be discussed. Prerequisite: LING 300 and LING 353, or consent of instructor.

LING400 - Formal Semantics 400-3 Formal Semantics. This course will introduce and develop formal mechanisms to encode meaning in natural language. We will deeply explore the topics of predication, definiteness, quantification, and semantic modeling. Mastery of these topics can be applied to many other semantic phenomena. By the end students will be able to: understand and evaluate scholarly literature in semantics; approach problems in natural language from the perspective of a formal semanticist; understand and describe the role of semantics in generative approaches to language; and produce novel work in semantics.

LING403 - English Phonology 403-3 English Phonology. Study of English phonology, including phonetics, phonemics and prosodics. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of department.

LING404 - American Dialects 404-3 American Dialects. Regional variation and social stratification of American English. Phonological and syntactic differences among the major dialects of American English. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of department.

LING405 - Intro to Phonological Theories 405-3 Introduction to Phonological Theories. A survey of various phonological theories from the 19th century up to the present, including theoretical issues arising there from and relationships among the theories. Limited data analysis within the perspectives of the different theories. Not open to those who have taken LING 503. Prerequisite: LING 300 or consent of department.

LING406 - Intro Historical Linguistics 406-3 Introduction to Historical Linguistics. (Same as ANTH 406) An introductory survey of historical and comparative linguistics, including terminology, assumptions and methods of investigation. Satisfies the CoLA Writing-Across-the-Curriculum requirement. Not open to graduate students in Linguistics. Prerequisites: LING 300, LING 405 (may be taken concurrently), or consent of department.

LING408 - Intro to Syntax 408-3 Introduction to Syntactic Theory. This course is an introduction to the major concepts and issues in generative grammar. Data from English and other languages will be examined and students will be provided with numerous opportunities to solve problems in syntax. Students will also be given an opportunity to carry out an individual project in syntax. Not open to those who have taken LING 508. Prerequisite: LING 300 or consent of department.

LING415 - Sociolinguistics 415-3 Sociolinguistics. (Same as ANTH 415) History, methodology, and future prospects in the study of social dialectology, linguistic geography, multilingualism, languages in contact, pidgin and creole languages, and language planning. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of instructor.

LING416 - Spanish in the U.S.A. 416-3 Spanish in the U.S.A. (Same as ANTH 416) This course offers a survey of the historical, social, political, linguistic and educational issues surrounding the Spanish language in the United States. Topics to be addressed include Spanish language use and bilingualism, language maintenance and shift, education of Latino populations, Hispanic diversity, and Latino literature.

LING417 - Language Contact 417-3 Language Contact. (Same as ANTH 417) This course will introduce students to the social conditions under which language contact occurs and the cultural and linguistic consequences of such contact. Primary topics will be language maintenance and shift, ideologies and attitudes regarding bilingualism, and language development and change, using data from a variety of languages and cultures. Designed to provide a comprehensive background for research on bi- or multilingual settings. Prerequisite: one of the following: ANTH 240B, LING 200, LING 300, ANTH 500B or LING 505.

LING426 - Gender, Culture, Language 426-3 Gender, Culture and Language. (Same as WGSS 426 and ANTH 426) This course is designed for students who have had some exposure to gender studies. It will focus on readings in language and gender in the fields of anthropological- and socio-linguistics. Issues to be addressed are the differences between language use by men/boys and women/girls, how these differences are embedded in other cultural practices, and the various methodologies and theories that have been used to study gendered language use.

LING430 - Grammatical Structures 430-3 to 6 (3,3) Grammatical Structures. Detailed analysis of the structure of particular languages. May be repeated to a total of six hours credit with consent of department. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of department.

LING431 - Pedagogical Grammar 431-3 Pedagogical Grammar. Explores relationship among language structure, learning and teaching in order to understand the role of grammar in TESOL. Makes students more aware of how the English language works, the kinds of language that ESL learners (K-adult) produce and why they proceed through certain stages, and understand the role and effects of grammatical consciousnes-sraising on the development of ESL. Not open to those who have taken LING 531. Prerequisite: LING 300 or consent of department.

LING440 - Topics in Linguistics 440-3 to 9 (3 per topic) Topics in Linguistics. Selected topics in theoretical and applied linguistics. May be repeated to a total of nine hours credit under different topics. Not for graduate credit.

LING442 - Language Planning 442-3 Language Planning. Survey of the field of language planning: definitions and typologies, language problems, language treatment, attitudes and beliefs about language, relations between language planning processes and other kinds of social and economic planning, linguistic innovations and other processes of language change, implementation of language policies.
Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of department.

LING443 - Bilingualism 443-3 Bilingualism. (Same as PSYC 443) Examines the linguistic, psycholinguistic, sociolinguistic and educational aspects of bilingualism, particularly as pertaining to the care and education of bilingual children. Useful for teachers, speech therapists, doctors, psychologists, counselors, and others working with bilinguals. Practical applications and data-based research. Prerequisite: LING 300 or consent of instructor.

LING445 - Psycholinguistics 445-3 Psycholinguistics. (Same as PSYC 445) A broad spectrum introduction to psycholinguistics. Topics to be covered include general methodology for the study of psycholinguistics, the nature of language, theories of human communication, language comprehension and production, first and second language acquisition, meaning and thought, natural animal communication systems and language and the brain. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of instructor.

LING450 - Language Families 450-3 to 6 (3,3) Language Families. A synchronic survey of particular language families or sub-families. May be repeated to a total of six hours credit with consent of department. Prerequisite: LING 300 or Graduate status or consent of instructor.

LING452 - Field Methods in Linguistics 452-3 Field Methods in Linguistics. At a time when minority languages are dwindling and becoming extinct, language documentation is more important than ever. This course has two pedagogical goals, related to the documentation of understudied languages. The first goal is to train students on the methods of eliciting and evaluating data to construct a detailed linguistic description and analysis of an unknown language, essentially from scratch, by working with a native speaker of the language. The second goal is for students to discover specific details of the structure of the language under investigation and document them for posterity. Satisfies the CoLA Writing-Across-the-Curriculum requirement. May be repeated for credit. Not open to those who have taken LING 552. Prerequisite: LING 300 and one of the following courses: LING 402, 403, 405, 408, with a minimum grade of C, or instructor’s consent.

LING454 - Observation in TESOL 454-3 Observation and Practice in TESOL. Focused observation of a wide variety of classes in English as a second language and in foreign languages. Some supervised teaching or tutoring. Analysis of textbooks for TESOL. Not for graduate credit. Prerequisite: LING 353 or consent of department.

LING456 - Contrast/Error Analysis 456-3 Contrastive and Error Analysis. Examination of the interference of other languages into the English of ESL learners on the levels of phonetics, phonology, morphology, syntax, lexicon, semantics, and orthography. Study of written and spoken errors, diagnosis of errors, and development of techniques for correction. Not for graduate credit. Prerequisite: LING 340 or consent of instructor.

LING470 - Theor Found ESL/Bilingual Educ 470-3 Theoretical Foundations of ESL and Bilingual Education. Provides a broad overview of the field of bilingual education, including related terminology; historical, political, social, theoretical, international, economic, cultural, and legal aspects of bilingual education; and educational program models for serving LEP students.

LING471 - Bilingual Ed Methods/Materials 471-3 Bilingual Education Methods and Materials. Methods and materials for: bilingual content, biliteracy, sheltered and multicultural instruction and for ELLS with disabilities; techniques for advocacy for ELLS, writing funding proposals, and conducting program reviews and workshops. Includes materials reviews, lesson planning and micro-teaching.

LING472 - ESL & Bilingual Assessment 472-3 Assessment of ESL and Bilingual Students. Assessment concepts and terminology; how to select, administer, and interpret standardized tests for English learners; develop traditional and alternative classroom tests of language and content instruction. Course includes lectures, readings, class discussions, and individual and group projects.

LING473 - CALL 473-3 Computer Assisted Language Learning. This hands-on course introduces essential concepts and skills for applying technology to language learning and instruction. Topics include online quizzes and activities, creating and editing multimedia objects for use in instructional materials, social networking, Web resources, evaluating commercial materials, digital storytelling, and hypermedia.
New developments in CALL are introduced as the state of the art progresses. Not open to those who have taken LING 573.

LING480A - Less Common Lang-Elemtry 480A-3 to 12 Less Commonly Taught Languages. Elementary course in less commonly taught language. Languages vary. Section (A) corresponds to first semester, section (B) of the same language is a continuation of section (A). Must be taken in (A), (B) sequence when available. Sequence may be repeated with a different language. Students must earn a grade of C or better in LING 480A before beginning LING 480B.

LING480B - Less Common Lang-Intermd 480B-3-12 Less Commonly Taught Languages. Elementary course in less commonly taught language. Languages vary. Section B is a continuation of section A. Must be taken in A,B sequence when available. Sequence may be repeated with a different language. Students must earn a grade of C or better in LING 480A before beginning LING 480B. Prerequisite: LING 480A.

LING487 - Teaching L2 Reading 487-3 Teaching Reading in a Second Language. An introduction to first and second language reading theories and their application to teaching reading in a second language. The focus is on critical evaluation of published materials and developing a reading unit for a target second language group. Not open to those who have taken LING 587.

LING489 - Teaching Vocabulary in L2 489-3 Teaching Vocabulary in L2. An introduction to teaching second language vocabulary through a range of techniques. The course uses corpus data and emphasizes the importance of building collocational knowledge. Not open to those who have taken LING 589.

LING497 - Readings in Linguistics 497-1 to 8 Readings in Linguistics. Directed readings in selected topics in linguistics. Not for graduate credit. Special approval needed from the instructor.
